

HUSTON-TILLOTSON UNIVERSITY

2009 Annual Report

The University Mission

Huston-Tillotson University is an historically black University affiliated with The United Methodist Church, the United Church of Christ, and the United Negro College Fund (UNCF). The mission of the University is to provide its increasingly diverse student body with an exemplary education that is grounded in the liberal arts and sciences, balanced with professional development, and directed to public service and leadership. The University prepares students with the integrity and civility to thrive in a diverse society, fosters spiritual development, preserves and promotes interest in the accomplishments and experiences of the University's historic constituents and evolving population, and creates and sustains supportive relationships which advance the Huston-Tillotson University community.

W.E.B. DuBois Honor Scholars and 2009 graduates (left to right) Gail N. Maduro (U.S. Virgin Islands), Llereva Mortimer (Bahamas), Arriel Goodman (Houston), Jeffrey Plummer (Gary, IN), Arlene Delgado (Brownsville), Khadi-Ann Dixon (Jamaica), and Ashley Davis (Houston), Not pictured are Kenneth Chapman (Austin), and twins Kembra and Kim Valentine (Trinidad and Tobago).

Huston-Tillotson University is accredited by the Commission on Colleges of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools to award baccalaureate degrees. Contact the Commission on Colleges at 1866 Southern Lane, Decatur, GA 30033-4097 or call 404.679.4500 for questions about the accreditation of Huston-Tillotson University.

The President's Message

Higher education institutions continue to face a range of challenges; the last two years are of particular note. While the calls for increased institutional accountability and transparency still echo from the debate over the reauthorization of the Higher Education Act (HEA), colleges and universities find themselves bracing for the direct impact from the global economic crisis. Uncertainty abounds.

Huston-Tillotson, while not unaffected by the vestiges of the economy and the demands surrounding the reauthorization of the HEA, has fared reasonably well in this turbulent environment. To be sure, some metrics by which the University is assessed have declined; however, careful management of the endowment combined with fundraising efforts have kept the University's operational budget in the black. The University is weathering the economic storm and has not lost sight of its goals and objectives, one of which—the Health and Wellness Center—is on schedule to be a symbol of progress and commitment to the University's service mission.

The University's future is bright because of donors like you. This report acknowledges your contributions and gives account of the University's stewardship. We want you to be confident that your investment has lasting value.

President and CEO

The Anthony and Louise Viaer-Alumni Hall

The $3 million renovation of the Anthony and Louise Viaer-Alumni Hall, the second oldest building on campus, was just the beginning for the 96-year old structure. The President’s Office, Institutional Advancement, and Institutional Research and Assessment are housed in the building that is once again referred to as “statuesque.” Upkeep and maintenance of the Viaer-Alumni Hall, listed in the National Register of Historic Places and designated with a Texas Historical Marker as a Texas Historical Site, are examples of ongoing commitments.

The Center for Religious Life

Housed at 1001 Chicon Street is the new HT Center for Religious Life and Campus Ministry, which was created to serve as a central meeting and gathering place for ministry activities and outreach programs. Huston-Tillotson University with the support of its founding denominations—The United Methodist Church and the United Church of Christ—offers programs that address spiritual formation and development. A full-time University Chaplain and an assistant director of campus life lead these activities. The weekly chapel hour, Brothers of Fellowship and Sister Connection Bible study groups, and spring break mission trips provide opportunities for students from all backgrounds to learn and grow in their faith.

Residence Halls: Living and Learning Communities

Allen-Frazier and Beard-Burrowes were occupied for the first time in 1956. Additions and renovations were made in 1965, 1977, 1988, 1999, and 2005. However, today's student requires a different type of living accommodations. Students with fewer than 60 hours are required to live in the residence halls. The living space centered around community with plenty of amenities helps to attract and retain students in campus housing.

The Dickey-Lawless Science Building

The University's new Saturday STEM Academy as part of the HT Math and Science Success Center is housed in the Dickey-Lawless Science Building, which was constructed in 1954. The science, technology, engineering, and mathematics initiative for ninth through 12th graders was designed to stimulate interests and careers in those areas among targeted minority populations.

Retrofitting and upgrading laboratories for practical applications are priorities for the University in order to stay abreast of the latest scientific methods and procedures. Initiatives such as the Minority Science Improvement Program (MSEIP) and Austin Pre-Freshman Engineering Program (AusPrEP) are also outpacing the tools and applications currently housed in Dickey-Lawless.

Inset shows proposed new classroom stations.

The Health and Wellness Complex

Imagine a corner of what was once “bluebonnet hill” transformed into a complex that becomes the envy of the community not only for its architectural design but for the services and programs housed within. Further imagine, the existing Mary E. Branch Gymnasium redesigned into a state-of-the art facility that will serve the needs of the campus and beyond. A modern building, the first since the chapel/humanities building was constructed in 1974, will be constructed on the Huston-Tillotson campus. Approximately 150,000 square feet with a 300-space parking facility, the health and wellness complex will act as a catalyst that will transform the state of health care access and bring together the HT departments of kinesiology and intercollegiate athletes.

Current Mary E. Branch Gymnasium

The efforts behind Homecoming 2009 resulted in a record number of alumni returning to the campus, and, in particular, to the ever-popular basketball game in the Mary E. Branch gymnasium. Additional bleachers on the stage were not enough for the capacity crowd in the unair-conditioned facility. The gymnasium will not only increase enrollment at the University by providing a modern, attractive facility for athletes, but it will solve the University's venue dilemma for popular events like homecoming and commencement. In addition, programs and concerts that are simply too problematic to schedule on campus now, would be ideal for the new complex and would bring additional revenue to the institution.

Architect's rendering of the proposed Mary E. Branch Gymnasium and Health and Wellness Complex

Proposed Campus Expansion Plans

The scope of the project would include the following:

- Community wellness center
- New athletic facility
- 300 space parking structure
- Track
- Additional regulation basketball courts
- Weight room
- Assembly seating for 1,500+
- Locker rooms
- Coaches' offices
- Kinesiology faculty offices
- Classrooms
- Wellness building reception area
 - Examination rooms
 - Radiology
 - Cardiology

A Complex to Serve the Community

2007-2008 Annual Gift Clubs

Houston-Tillotson University is pleased to pay tribute to the many individuals and organizations who made gifts to the University during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 2007 and ending June 30, 2008. Their gifts have helped the University fulfill its mission. Every effort has been made to accurately recognize all who supported the University. However, if donors have been omitted or if their names or club placement are in error, we extend our apologies and would appreciate having such errors called to our attention, so that we may correct our records.
