Brief History

Huston-Tillotson University derives from the merger of Tillotson College and Samuel Huston College. Tillotson College dates back to 1875 and the work of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the American Missionary Association of the Congregational Church (now known as the United Church of Christ). The secondary school established eventually became Tillotson College and Normal Institute.

The roots of Samuel Huston College date to 1876 when the Reverend George Warren Richardson, a Methodist minister from Minnesota, leased St. Paul Methodist Episcopal Church in Dallas, Texas, as the site for a school for the colored youth of Dallas. Eventually the Methodist West Texas Conference agreed to relocate the school to Austin, Texas.

Huston-Tillotson College, chartered in 1952 by the State of Texas, and represents the merger of Tillotson College and Samuel Huston College.

Huston-Tillotson College officially changed its name to Huston-Tillotson University, effective February 28, 2005.
